III. How to Live While Waiting

There should be an air of expectancy constantly characterizing the Christian. We are looking for Someone-yes, a very definite and glori-come (v. 32). That is a matter hidden in the eternal counsels of God the Father, a secret into which angels do not pry, and which even the Son did not know. Why then do foolish men attempt to learn it? Beware of any man who sets a date for Christ's return or for the end of the age. He is setting himself up as being superior to Christ, and you can be sure that he is an impostor. We do not know the day, but of the fact we are sure. Christ is coming again! So we are to be watchful as we wait. God has not called us to stand idle, looking for the dawn-

This financial statement and these charts, however, are not the whole story. They are only the last chapter in the book. If the other chapters were written they would tell the story of the service being rendered to our more than 900,000 policyholders by our more than 500 agents, superintendents and managers; they would tell the story of the satisfactory manner in which this Company has served, and is serving, the people of Alabama; they would tell the story of the more than 10,000 funerals provided in 1943 by funeral homes under the direction and supervision of this Company with the full cost of each funeral paid for from the proceeds of a funeral policy; they would tell the story of the satisfaction of beneficiaries with the way in which these funerals were handled. It is not possible to write these other chapters, but the concluding chapter as shown by the financial statement and by the charts is proof that Brown-Service Insurance Company is rendering a service that justifies the confidence and continued support of our people.

Signs of Spring

THE days are still short; half the nation shivers under a blanket of snow—but there are signs of spring everywhere if you know where to look for them. They are little things—such as new seed catalogs, ads clipped from magazines, reminders, scribbled on backs of envelopes, of things to be done.

Thousands of men, all over the country, are making such notes, oking ahead—farmers, manufacturers, storekeepers, bankers. hey represent what is called "management," and they know that to make the most of any season requires pretty careful figuring. There's a skill in this management. It's a skill that men who run things have in common—that men who run things successfull have got to have. Management's problems are a good deal alike no matter what the business—getting help, meeting payrolls and tax payments, making ends meet and having a little left over for new projects, planning for the future without letting the planning interfere with the job in hand. And when you talk with these men, you find they have the same objectives, too. Right now they want to get the war won at the lowest possible cost in lives and suffering. After that's done, they'll be back on their never-ending job of turning out the ma-
